From the Desk of Neal G. Johnson

Welcome to my Target Shooting Equipment Manual Number Nine. Once again we have moved to larger quarters. This time it is just up the street from the old location. We are in a new building with more room and a real customer area where you can be comfortable and examine any and all of our products.

This manual has grown with the addition of more items, information and opinions. The new information has been added so that you can enjoy and progress in your sport. A portion of the new information involves more equipment explanations, as well as expanding existing explanations. I have also included an article for those just starting out in the sport of rifle. It is located at the end of the rifle section.

This year we added a store at Camp Perry, and I expect it to expand next year. It requires a lot of work, but it is worth every effort because it allows us to meet so many of our customers face to face.

We are completely rebuilding our Web Site and it should be up and running by the time you receive this catalog. Our goal is to provide a Web Site that is easier to use, more up to date, and full of new and useable information.

Last but not least, I have changed our shipping policy. Shipping is now FREE in most cases to all 50 states. Of course, we will choose the most economical shipping method, and that will usually be UPS Ground or Priority Mail. There will be just a few exceptions. We will charge for the very heavy items such as targets and ammunition. You will also have to pay for quicker shipping methods if you are in a hurry. This is a major saving for most of your orders.

Please come visit our new store in Colorado Springs or at Camp Perry. Our hours have not changed and we would really like to see you.

Good shooting,

This business started out as an ordinary gunsmith shop, part time in 1962, as friends saw the work I was doing on my own guns. I have been “smithing” professionally ever since. My kids started shooting in 1972, and my interest in smallbore equipment grew with them. Providing for four shooters in one family has led to the development of several products and shop procedures that are now available to you, our customers. Of course, your requests for solutions to new problems keep me developing new ideas which benefit us all.

Almost anything is possible if given enough time, but that is the biggest problem. My shop handles strictly target equipment. Even then, I have had to determine priorities because of the workload. My first priority is always repairs necessary to return equipment to service. Remember, some parts are hard to get, especially for out of production guns, and that can tie up a gun for a very long time no matter what priority I may want to set. Custom work is next. Jobs like glass bedding that won't tie up a gun long can usually be done immediately. Rebarreling takes longer. I assign refinishing the lowest priority, as that has little bearing on the performance of the equipment, although pride in equipment makes us all perform a little better.

I will try to work with you in scheduling your gun work. If you let me know your competition and training schedule, I will cooperate to get the job done as best I can.

We usually have many items of used equipment in inventory. We do this to allow new shooters or shooters who have budget constraints to acquire good equipment for less money than the cost of new.

Every item is checked for condition. Only those items that are serviceable are offered for sale. Firearms are checked for safety and proper functioning. As with all of our used and new equipment, we will recommend the items we think will do the best job for the shooter.

If we are to maintain an inventory of used equipment, we must depend on you, the customer, to provide it. We accept trade-ins on major items such as guns, scopes and shooting jackets. We will buy used equipment, large or small, outright if you have excess to sell. We also have a consignment program so that you can offer an item for sale. We will display and advertise it and sell it for you at usually the best price you can get.

Our current inventory of the major items of used equipment will be published once or twice a month. We also have many other items that are not listed in the booklet. Please call and allow us to check our current inventory for items of interest to you. Our used equipment list is also on the World Wide Web. Check out our catalog and current used list at www.nealjguns.com. Our e-mail address is neal@nealjguns.com.

If you're shopping for a present but don't know what to give someone, try a Gunsmithing, Inc. Gift Certificate. Our gift certificates are available in any amount and for all occasions.
